TYING UP THE LOOSE ends of the old year; attempting to get prepared for the new one; trying to remember to write "1973" instead of "1972" and, in the meantime, trying to keep the bowl games straight are all part of the confused state of affairs extending from Christmas until the calendar has been flipped securely into place and it is an established fact that the new year is actually under way.

The week after Christmas seems always to get lost in the shuffle, as far as we are concerned.

We find it difficult to get organized enough after Christmas to be prepared to bid one year farewell and greet the new one.

But we also find that no matter how personally unprepared we are during this particular period, it doesn't seem to have any effect on the clock or calendar.

The new year starts, regardless.

So, ready or not, here we are in 1973.

BEFORE THE NEW YEAR begins rolling too fast (after all, today is only January 3), there are some carry-overs of the Christmas season of 1972 that should be noted.

Take the annual "Ben Gould Christmas party" of the Kiwanis Club that has taken place for a number of years the week before Christmas.

We suppose "party" is not the proper way to describe this annual event, for the "entertainment" at the affair is provided by the opening of wallets. And there are some no doubt who would not consider that particularly entertaining, especially if it w[illegible] their own.

And just how many ways can a wallet be opened?

We have it on good authority that Ben has found ways, however, that defy description.

Few Kiwanians probably know exactly how it all got started, we mean this Christmas bash with the Rev. Gould at the controls.

But it has now become a club tradition and has developed into one of this community's outstanding benefits for the less-fortunate at Christmastime.

It is a tremendous project and the club and Ben should be commended for their efforts.

And we get the feeling that the club members are inwardly pleased.

Outwardly, of course, they groan a lot.

TECHNICALLY THE KIwanians don't "give" at this annual session.

They are "fined" individually by Ben.

And before levying each "fine," Ben reports on his "research" pertaining to the individual concerned. The "research," of course, forms the basis for the $$ amount of the fine.

As you can well imagine, some of the comments are classics.

The club meets for only 90 minutes and we suppose the Rev. Gould operates for only about 60 minutes.

This year a total of $877.50 was raised at that Kiwanian meeting.

That breaks down to about $140 per minute!

The money is used to fill Christmas boxes for the needy in the area which is also done under Ben's direction with a volunteer crew. And that in itself is a major undertaking.

This year 55 boxes were filled and delivered to families. In many cases that was the only Christmas these families had. And some of the situations were mighty sad ones.

That's something to think about in this affluent age when apparently all records were broken in Christmas sales.

GOES TO BID THIS SUMMER

Campbell's new library gets final push by City Council

Campbell's long-awaited new $861,000 library building should go to bid by early summer in 1973 as a result of one of the City Council's final acts of 1972.

At the last meeting of the old year, the City Council directed Bill Hedley, architect, to proceed with final plans and specifications for the 24,000 square-foot building that will be constructed across from the city hall between Central and Harrison.

Hedley indicated that approximately four months was needed to complete the working drawings. He added that approximately 35% of the architect's work had already been completed.

Prior to directing Hedley to proceed, the Council approved the modification in the agreement for architectural services that was made in 1967.

The original agreement called for a 12,000 square foot building and, in addition, the library site had been relocated and other revisions made.

In 1967, the citizens of Campbell approved a $400,000 bond issue for a 12,000 square foot library that would have been part of the new city hall.

However, because of a federal allocation of $200,000 and a subsequent allotment of $265,000, the expanded library was made possible but a new site had to be selected because the city hall site was too small. The city has acquired all the necessary property.

The agreement with Hedley calls for a construction budget of $632,000, including architect's fees. The agreement notes also that all architect's fees have been paid to date and the remainder of the work will be for the construction document phase, bidding and construction administration and that the fee will be 8.5% of the new construction cost.

Dance studio appeals

Although the appeal from a Planning Commission decision rejecting a dance studio at 89 Cherry Lane is scheduled for the agenda of the City Council for next Monday, January 8, the applicants, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Knowles, have asked the matter be continued until the January 22 meeting.

In their letter, the Knowles submitted that the holiday season had not allowed them to present their case to their neighbors.

At the Planning Commission meeting when the use permit was denied, a number of neighbors were present to protest the dance studio in the area which they claimed would be a commercial infringement into a residential sector.

In appealing, the Knowles indicated that they felt there had been a misunderstanding over the problems of traffic and parking and wanted a chance to poll their neighbors. They also indicated that the presentation before the Planning Commission suffered because of their inexperience in such matters.

In similar appeal situations in the past, the City Council has adhered to the applicant's request.

On the agenda also for next Monday, is the PD request of Vern L. Buckle, at 240 Dillon Ave., for a plumbing shop.

The Planning Commission turned down the proposal at the last meeting. However, PD actions go to the City Council without appeal.

Requests for two "live entertainment" permits are also on the agenda. One for the "Outlook" in the PruneYard and the other for the former Tiki Ho at Hacienda and Winchester now operated by "Cottonseed Clark."

The City Council also may discuss priorities relating to the expenditure of funds in the revenue-sharing program.

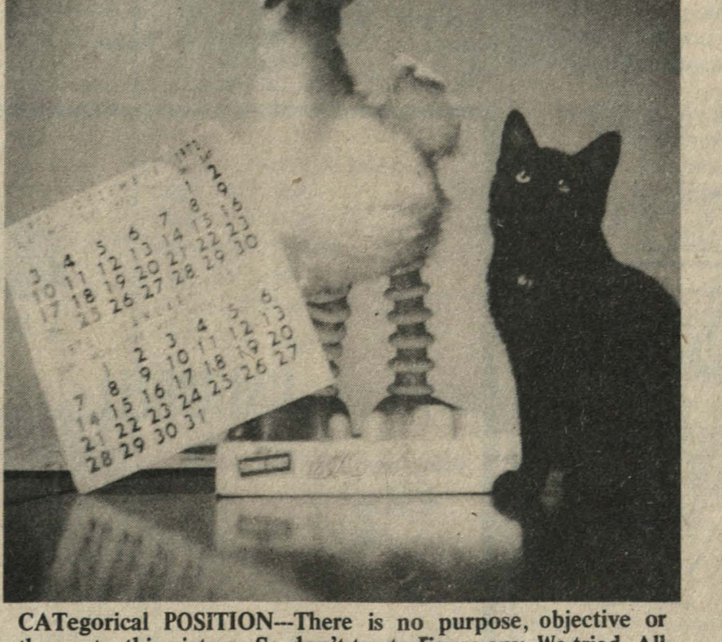
Fire pact status flares up

Campbell councilmen at the last meeting of the year indicated they were a little burned over the present status of the proposed automatic mutual aid pact with Central Fire District.

Disturbed over "unofficial" reports that the fire commissioners of Central Fire District had rejected an automatic mutual aid agreement with the City of Campbell, the City Council directed City Manager Bob Stephens to set up a meeting between the commissioners and the City Council.

In the meantime, the Council directed Fire Chief Gene Borden to continue to furnish automatic mutual aid to Central Fire.

During the discussion, Campbell Fireman Mike Johnson, representing the local firefighters union, reported that he had attended the meeting of the Central Fire District fire commissioners and had spoken against any automatic mutual aid pact.



CATegorical POSITION--There is no purpose, objective or theme to this picture. So don't try to figure any. We tried. All it does is to emphasize that the new year is under way, a fact that all of us should be aware of by now. The cat in the picture seems to be taking the whole bit quite calmly and the "bird" isn't even ruffling its feathers.

RETIRES--Herman Rice, 62, of 18920 Sunnybrook Court, Saratoga, a resident of this area since 1920 and an employee of the public works department of the City of Campbell since February 3, 1959, was honored last Thursday at a retirement luncheon given by fellow employees. Rice becomes the second city employee to retire under the city's plan. Fire Chief George Maxwell was the first.

Rice at the time of his retirement was classified as maintenance man II. He went on the payroll of the city in 1959 as a laborer.

Rice retired as a volunteer fireman (as pictured) in September, 1970 after serving for 25 years as a volunteer. When he retired he was a captain in the volunteers.

Rice will also be honored for his service to the city at the City Council meeting next Monday, January 8, by a special resolution.

City to get new data computer

During 1973, the City of Campbell's finance department will move into the expanded computer field as a result of City Council action approving the immediate lease purchase of a Burroughs data processing machine.

In the summer, an improved model of the Burroughs machine will be acquired to replace the one that is leased.

Jeff Whittaker, finance director, in recommending the acquisition of the data processing machine said that leasing the "5000" model will allow his personnel to begin operating immediately and that the "8000" model that will be available in summer will use the same material but will allow for more phases in its operation.

It was estimated that approximately $19,000 will be expended in the lease-purchase arrangement for the year. The money was allocated when the city's budget was approved last July.

By ordering the L5000, the City of Campbell automatically is placed on Burroughs' priority list for the L8000.

At the same meeting, the Council also approved the purchase for $5,045 of a Victor electrowriter to improve communications between the police and fire departments.

FOR CITY OF CAMPBELL

Citizen group to set goals

Representing a varied cross-section of the community, a 22-member steering committee for the city's goals program, will hold its first meeting in the council chambers at 7:30 p.m. this evening (Wednesday).

The committee members have been selected by the City Council and Vice-Mayor Dean Chamberlin and Councilman Norm Paul will serve in a liaison capacity with the group.

TO NAME OFFICERS

The main purpose of the first meeting will be to name a chairman and vice-chairman of the steering committee and to make plans for the recruitment of citizen members for the Citizens Advisory Goals Committee.

Mayor Bill Podgorsek will welcome the group and Paul will outline the guidelines and the intent and purposes of the committee.

Chamberlin will explain the suggested organization structure and the major areas of concern while City Manager Bob Stephens will describe the role of city staff personnel in the goals program.

FIRST TIME

City officials point out that, although this is the first time a goals program has been initiated involving the citizens of the community, the formation of the citizens committee in 1967 followed a similar pattern.

The citizens committee in 1967, after studying all phases of a proposed capital improvement program, recommended that $3.5 million bond issue be presented to the voters. The same group then continued as a bond committee for the successful campaign.

The difference in the organization this time, city officials point out, is that the "areas of concern" are more varied and are not limited to capital improvements.

In the statement forming the committee, the City Council specified that it was the intent to have all interests of the city represented and that the main question was simply "What is best for the entire city?"

PROGRAM NEED

The statement also recognized the need for the city government to respond to changes which directly affect the day-to-day lives of its citizenry.

Three distinct areas of concern have been outlined. They are: (1) physical and economic development of the city; (2) intergovernmental relations; (3) city's responsibility for people-orientated programs.

MEMBERSHIP

The membership of the steering committee includes the chairmen of the four advisory commissions: Don Hebard, planning; Mrs. Edith Morley, parks and recreation; Mrs. Jeanette Watson, civic improvement; Miss Becky Campos, youth.

Other members who have been named are: Ed Fabbri, 1973 president of the Chamber of Commerce; Mrs. Irma Reese, director, Progressive

HOW MANY DECIBELS WAS THAT BARK--A current problem facing Campbell city officialdom is how to establish a standard by decibels for a "reasonable" sound level for a proposed dog kennel at 1849 Pollard Road. Reports have been submitted by acoustical experts and the City Council has now bucked the issue back to the Planning Commission for a more specific recommendation as to how loud is a bark. This classic photo has graced the office walls of The Press for a long time. We thought it fitted in rather well.

BACK TO PLANNING COMMISSION

City Council wants scale for noise of barking dogs

What is the decibel rating of a barking dog and what is a "reasonable sound level" for a dog kennel?

That was the hang-up of the City Council at the last meeting of the old year, when it was decided, after considerable discussion, that the Planning Commission should have been more specific in a zone change recommendation that would allow a dog kennel at 1849 Pollard Road.

By a 4-1 vote (Councilman Dean Chamberlin dissenting), the City Council referred the long-pending zone change application of Miss Joyce Kealoha back to the Planning Commission for a more specific recommendation as to what decibel scale would be considered "reasonable."

Chamberlin was unconvinced that the referral and the ensuing delay would serve any useful purpose. He maintained that it was a "judgment call" for the City Council and would be again when the matter came back. He said it was not known how much noise barking dogs make and the Council had enough information to act on the matter.

The Planning Commission had recommended approval of the zone change and kennel provided that before the kennel plans were approved an acoustical study would be submitted indicating that the sound level would be reasonable.

Two acoustical reports had been submitted, one by Dr. Vincent Salmon, representing Miss Kealoha, and another by Ed Pack, representing Fred Chez, owner of adjacent property who has vigorously opposed the kennel.

Councilman Norm Paul maintained that it was necessary to set a standard for the sound level before any action by the Council was taken. He submitted that it should be possible to measure the noise made by dogs barking and that it could be spelled out in the ordinance.

In the discussion, however, it was pointed out that there were many unknown factors involved in measuring the barking of dogs, such as whether all 28 dogs would be barking at once and all facing in one direction, or if the dogs were angry, etc.

As a result of the Council action, the matter now goes to the Planning Commission and that body will now attempt to find a way to measure the barks.

WHO, ME BARK ??

Police nab suspect after window-breaking escapade

One suspect is under arrest and a second is being sought in a wild window-breaking spree which left seven Campbell stores with over $2,400 worth of damage last week.

According to reports, Campbell police officer Robert Fulwider was patrolling Campbell Avenue last Wednesday when he heard an alarm at one of the nearby businesses. He also observed two young men acting strangely and tried to stop them for questioning.

The pair began to run but one of the suspects tripped and fell. While the suspect was attempting to make good his flight he kicked in the front window of Taylor's Shell Station, according to the officer's report.

Arrested at the scene was Joseph O. Cardona, 19, of Milpitas. Police are seeking his companion.

Front pane-glass windows were found broken at Campbell Floral Shop, Bead World, Campbell Music Center, Happiness Imports, Roberts Book Store and the Yin Yang Co.

Editorial

Goals for 1973

One of the advantages of any newspaper, as we have reported on a number of occasions, is that the past issues of the newspaper provide an excellent reference basis as to what exactly happened in any given period in relation to some proposed civic project.

As we start the new year then, we think it is somewhat important to refer to the issues of 12 months ago and ascertain whether the goals and objectives that were specified as part of the 1972 program were attained.

We concede that goals and objectives are highly important.

But it seems to us that it has been pretty well established that in suggesting goals for any specific year, the idea is only to provide a guideline and that, even if the goals are not reached, the target was set.

What we are saying, of course, is that in most cases "goals" per se are somewhat intangible.

"Goals" need not be achieved in one year, or five years or even 10 years.

As a case in point, in the first issue last year, the editorial referred to two highly controversial items that would be on the community's agenda during 1972.

One was the zoning ramifications involved in the 31-acre Amato property and the other was the tax base issue of the Campbell Union (elementary) School District.

We do not mean to imply that the Amato issue or the tax rate were "goals" for the year. They were merely issues that were to be resolved during the year and the editorial simply called attention to that fact.

For the record, the two issues were resolved in 1972.

As we go into 1973, we find that the same situation does not exist as last year.

In other words there are no clear-cut issues on the drafting board now, so to speak, that are to be resolved during the next 12 months, as was the case last year with the Amato property and the school tax.

True, there will be a school trustee election in 1973 and the results can have a far-reaching impact on the school district and there will be city construction programs undertaken involving the engineering wing at the city hall, the long-awaited new library and the improvement of the city park.

But one might say that those items are sort of predestined.

We concede that it is highly imperative that turnout at the polls in the school trustee election is big enough so that it is representative of the district so a mandate of some sort is given.

But the election is already scheduled as is the city construction.

What is going to make the year 1973 an important one, of course, will be the "unscheduled" events that will occur which make impact unforeseen at the moment.

We grant that a 12-month calendar is merely a theoretical period and that projects don't stop and start just because one year ends and another starts.

On the other hand, a 12-month period gives us all an opportunity to reflect, review and re-group.

That is why we feel that the newly-formed steering committee of the "goals committee" that has been named by the City Council has its work cut out for it.

The problem, of course, is how to establish the proper ground rules for its operation.

The 22-member "steering committee" meets tonight (Wednesday) for the first time.

The intent and purpose for the establishment of a citizens advisory goals committee have been well defined on a general basis and we sincerely believe that the committee can serve a useful purpose for the community.

We reiterate, however, that it is imperative that the committee membership be expanded and that efforts be made to involve those citizens who are not now "involved" in civic affairs.

For example, almost one-half of the present membership are either part of the city official family, representing the commissions, or are directors of the Chamber of Commerce.

While we grant that it is important that the city and the CofC be involved, we cannot emphasize too strongly that any "goals" that are developed, to be effective, must emanate from the grass roots.

AS WE MENTIONED, DESPITE the exaggerated groans, the Kiwanians appreciate what their giving under duress means.

We quote from their bulletin:

"Harry (Colby) winced and then introduced our very own Santa Claus -- Rev. Ben Gould. During the "meeting" he described himself as "the Lord's messenger -- others were heard muttering such descriptions as 'Dillinger, Jesse James and Black Bart.'

"In his quiet, unassuming way Ben shared some of his thoughts on the subjects of golf, the Reno Methodist Church, eyeglasses, school trustees, reading material, burglars, banking, insurance, tithing, Campbell water, relatives and hospitals.

"This simple, kindly man wove these diverse topics into a most enlightening speech that used $25 donations as exclamation points....

"As usual, Ben, you did a great job, and your closing words about how the money is benefiting many people made our hearts as light as our wallets. I think a lot of us don't feel the Chirstmas season has arrived until you 'do your thing'.".....

And we might add "your thing" is great.

ONE OF THE MOST INspirational people with whom we ever have been associated in journalism was the woman's editor of a newspaper in southern California, Dorothy Miller.

She went into journalism after she had become disabled from a rare disease and could not continue as a physical education and art teacher.

She began by becoming a "string correspondent" while flat on her back in bed. She first began writing in longhand but being tremendously resourceful she had her typewriter rigged up so she could use it in bed.

When she was able to get out of bed, she used crutches and a wheelchair to get around. She figured out how she could use the clutch on her car by hand (This was before the days of automatic shift.) and she was hired as a full-time writer at the newspaper, coming to work in her car and maneuvering her portable wheelchair into position at her desk.

Although in pain most of the time, she kept on working a full shift and was active in many community organizations. From time to time she was bed-ridden but still conducted her editorial duties on a shuttle basis, using her bedside phone and trusty typewriter.

Eventually, after almost 18 years as woman's editor, she was hospitalized for long periods of time and had to retire from active participation in the field of journalism in which she had made an outstanding record.

But after her various hospitalization periods, she still remains undaunted and looks ahead with optimism as she continues writing on a "strong" and free-lance basis.

Her enthusiasm, determination and her iron will in face of physical adversity, have been unbelievable and absolutely defy comparison.

We have known Dorothy for 20 years and each Christmas look forward to her messages which have been written over the years at various times from hospitals or from her bed at home.

But they always carry thoughts of others and minimize her own problems.

We have always been terribly proud and fond of Dorothy Miller, as a friend and an associate.

AS 1973 GETS UNDER way and we all are sort of wrapping up the old year, we would like to share with you excerpts from Dorothy's 1972 Christmas message.

We are sure she won't mind.

She first discusses her immediate family and then:

"Almost half of 1972, as far as I'm concerned, has been spent in bed. First of all, the graft on my leg, done in '63, broke down and so after 20 casts and three months in bed, it healed and I was able to get up, into the wheelchair and even drive my car! My former Times secretary's father, 'Les' Carrell (a genius) invented a loader to pick up my wheelchair and put it into the trunk of my car -- just by pressing a button! We're going to apply for a copyright on the design.

It's a God's blessing for me (I can't lift the chair any more) and will prove helpful to other handicapped persons.

"Ever since Labor Day, when a yellow jacket stung me on the middle of the forehead, life again has been complicated with pain, and another sojourn in bed.....

"The year has been filled with teaching both high school and junior college students; counseling; writing on those books; creating my weekly column.....working in the Business and Professional Women's Club, which named me 'Business Woman of the Year' in October.....

"As this 1972 draws to a close, may I express my heartfelt gratitude to all my friends, without whom life would be so empty. Letters, visits, telephone calls create a world right here within my home... so the good Lord has been good to me and I know and trust his blessings have made your life happy, healthy and fulfilled...Love from Dorothy".....

We think you will agree that she is quite a person.

And it does make some of our own problems seem pretty trivial.

ENCLOSED WITH THE message was another sheet which contained a poem that we assume Dorothy composed in one of her spare moments:

"It is my joy in life to find
"At every turning of the road
"The strong arms of a comrade kind
"To help me onward with my load;

"And since I have no gold to give,
"And love alone must make amends,
"My only prayer is, while I live--
"God make me worthy of my friends."

There is nothing we can add to that.

Or can anyone else.

Dear Headstart Youngsters at St. Lawrence Episcopal Church:

We just want to say a big thank you for letting us come to your place and giving us the privilege of sharing ourselves and our gifts with you. You have given us a wonderful time and a mighty good feeling. It is nice knowing that we have met some new friends who have brought us the experience of joy, laughter and happiness.

A TRIBUTE

Dear George:

A dear friend of mine recently passed away. I wonder if you would be so kind as to print this simple tribute to him. Thank you,

Floyd Little

KELVIN S. YOUNG

Dear Kelvin:

You left us. Yes, you are gone, but you gave a good account of yourself as an individual, in your business, and in community services.

We feel a down deep sadness and loneliness. Perhaps, this is because we are a little selfish. You see, over the years, you became a part of our lives.

Yes, you lent a hand in times of need, you encouraged in times of disappointment, and you praised in times of accomplishment. What a wonderful friend.

Who will take your place? No one. There is a special nitch in the hearts of many, just for you. Yes, you will live on in the hearts of your many friends who appreciate you so very much.

Kelvin, we'd like to say that time will eventually heal our lonely hearts, but it is not true. Only, when we are united in that heavenly land, will our tears be forever wiped away, and our aching hearts be completely healed.

Farewell until we meet again,

Floyd

QUESTIONS PICTURE

Dear Editor,

Nothing against Campbell's mayor Bill Podgorsek, I guess he deserves four pictures in your picture portraits of 1972 (Dec. 27 edition).

However, the Campbell Little League Tournament team won the Little League District 44 championship in 1972. Would it not have been appropriate to have included a picture of the team, as in place of our mayor throwing out the first ball?

COMMENDING "BRAD"

C. E. Bradley, "Brad" to everyone in the district, and to his many friends, has compiled his last budget, issued his last income projection, filed his last balance sheet for Campbell Union School District. After some twenty years of dedicated, capable service to the school district and to the community, Brad has retired.

During his tenure as business manager, he shepherded this district through what Trustee Steinberg referred to as that generation of tremendous growth which saw CUSD expand from a rural district of three schools, to a metropolitan district of nineteen.

Those of us who worked with him and who knew less than he about the intricacies of school district finance (and that was everyone in the district) were often critical, but when the final reports were in each year, we had to be impressed with how close his projections were to those final figures.

Brad has given a third of his life and perhaps a preponderance of his energy to this public service. It has been our pleasure to have been associated with him during some of that period. We have found him to be a fair man, a kind man, a gentleman.

May the years ahead be many and may they be filled with pleasure. You have earned it!

We wish you well, Brad.

November building slumps

That Campbell's building record of $18.4 million set in 1971 will not be equalled or surpassed this year has become pretty much a certainty based on the slump experienced in November, according to the monthly report of Wally Byron, city building official. December permits are not expected to close the gap to any extent.

In November, only $52,557 in permit valuations were issued, the low mark for the year, bringing the total for the year up $14,183,516 as compared to $18.3 million at the same time last year.

Of the November total, only one permit was for new construction, a duplex for James F. Hogue at 72 N. Third St. for $30,972. Permits for alterations and signs made up the rest.

Until the November slump, however, it had appeared that last year's record might have been in jeopardy. However, 1972 is already the second best building year in the city's history.

What has brought this year's total to such a high point was the issuance of 116 permits for single-family homes for $2.6 million. Only nine such permits for $174,388 were issued last year.

Building of multiples slacked off this year in comparison to last year when 107 permits were issued for $13.5 million. To date this year there have been eight such permits for $5.1 million. However, this year there have been 17 commercial permits issued for $5.3 million compared to 26 last year for $2.6 million.

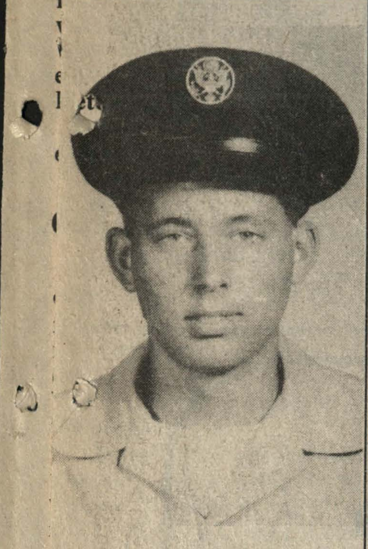
Grant awarded to hospital

A $25,000 grant has been received by Good Samaritan Hospital of Santa Clara Valley, it was announced here recently. The grant, from the James Irvine Foundation, will be used towards purchase of monitoring equipment for the Infant Intensive Care Unit that will be part of the hospital's Phase Two, now under construction.

Word of the approval of the grant came in a letter to Dr. Robert N. Boswell, development director for The Good Samaritan Hospital, from The Irvine Foundation.

According to Dr. Boswell, total cost of equipment for The Good Samaritan Hospital's Infant Intensive Care Unit is expected to be $67-573. The unit will contain the latest in equipment for use by physicians in treating infants in distress.

Plans call for Phase Two of the hospital to be completed in mid-1973. It is a non-profit, community hospital located in the Cambrian area of San Jose, between Los Gatos and Campbell.



TO CHANUTE AFB---Airman John F. Roberts, son of Mrs. Pauline Pringle of Campbell, has been assigned to Chanute AFB, Ill., after completing Air Force basic training.

If his car had not stalled ----

A Campbell police officer's offer of help to a motorist with car trouble has led to the arrest of a Campbell man.

On Christmas Eve the patrolman stopped to offer aid. The motorist declined help. A routine warrant check was run on the car and the officer continued on his patrols. Within a few minutes word came back that the owner of the car was wanted on charges of failure to appear to answer burglary charges in New Mexico.

Shortly before 1 a.m. on Christmas morning the vehicle was spotted in the parking lot adjoining Sambo's restaurant in Campbell. Officers waited until the suspect and his wife left and then placed him under arrest.

According to reports he is believed to have been using the alias Manuel Andy Montoya. He resided at 637 Craig Ave. The warrant lists the suspect as Dennis Clarence Lovato. The New Mexico warrant was issued when Lovato, out on $10,000 bail, failed to answer charges that he took part in a residential burglary in that Southwestern state.

Campbell police received word of the warrant via the National Crime Information Center (N.C.I.C.). The suspect is in custody awaiting extradition proceedings.

Rules for safer cycling

Bicycling is a lot of fun . . . but it can be dangerous. Here are some tips for safer cycling:

1. Learn to ride in a safe, quiet place. Keep off busy streets until you can ride well.
2. Obey all traffic signals and boulevard stops.
3. Be sure to give arm signals at intersections. Walk your bike across; it's much safer.
4. Always ride your bicycle on the right side of the street with traffic, not against it. Don't swing back and forth.
5. It is against the law to ride bicycles on sidewalks.
6. Pedestrians have the right-of-way at all times.
7. Carry books or packages in carriers or tied to racks. You need both hands for riding and giving signals.
8. It is unlawful to leave bicycles unlocked.
9. State and City law requires all bikes be equipped with a rear-mounted red reflector 1.75 inches in diameter or larger, approved by the Police Department, and strong enough to be seen 100 yards away. For night riding, bikes must be equipped with a headlamp that can be seen 100 yards away.

For more complete safety information see the California Vehicle Code on bicycles.

ST. LUCY'S

YOUTH COUNCIL REPORTS

by Teri Wheeler

If you were at the PruneYard two Saturdays ago you might have noticed a group of Christmas carolers. They were members of St. Lucy's Youth Council giving the PruneYard some Christmas spirit. Starting at 1 p.m. they sang for an hour and at 2 p.m. the Gustavians took over.

Later that night Christmas was celebrated by a dance beginning at 8 p.m. The band playing was the "Necessary Evil." Unfortunately not as many people came as were expected. Although about 35 showed up, it was still a success.

The first part of the evening was taken up by dancing. Then Santa Claus arrived and took all the girl's orders for Christmas. After that, everyone joined in to sing Christmas carols. When the singing was through the band played and we danced again. At midnight some people left and others stayed to clean up. It was a fun night.

Did you know that one Sunday a month the Youth Council sells coffee and donuts in the annex? Well...if you did, we haven't noticed.

The next Sunday we'll be selling them is January 7. Come eat, drink and be merry this Sunday at St. Lucy's.

Forestry topic of meeting

The Country Woman's Club of Campbell will open their New Year with a meeting on January 8, 1973 at 1 p.m. in the Fellowship Hall of the Congregational Church of Campbell, 400 W. Campbell Ave.

Mrs. H. W. Jensen, chairman, will be assisted by Mrs. H. A. Vaughn, Mrs. J. B. Arends, Mrs. W. H. Scott, Mrs. F. A. Coombs, and Mrs. B. H. Howe.

After the awards were given out, Mimi Underwood called the role. Margaret Collison gave the treasurer's report and projects reports were given. Liz Whitty gave the reporters report on news clippings in the local newspapers about our club and members. President Jim Bombaci adjourned the meeting.

The Buena Suerte 4H also went Christmas Caroling on December 21 to nearby convalescent homes as a community service. Our next 4H meeting will be on January 3, 1973 at 7:30 at the Holy Cross Lutheran Church, Los Gatos, and may all of you have a Happy New Year.

GETTING READY---Mechanics Paul Holt, left, and Gerald Trotter paint the wheels white on a former San Jose City Lines bus in preparation for operation by the County Transit District which started New Year's Day. All City Lines, the Palo Alto Peninsula lines and the suburban lines of Peerless Stages will be operated by the County Transit District.

County bus line goes into operation New Year's Day

All buses operated by the new Santa Clara County Transit District went spruced up and given a new identity before the district went into operation January 1.

Eventually, all County Transit buses will be painted in a new color scheme of white, with dark blue and orange striping. But to start things rolling, all the wheels were painted white before the buses moved out on New Year's Day.

The buses also will sport new logos, or insignias in blue, orange and white, depicting the initials of County Transit District. The entire name of the district also will be on each bus.

Before buses left the district yard at 800 W. San Carlos St., San Jose, they were scrubbed inside and out. Fareboxes were painted silver.

Maintenance workers have new white overalls, with the district emblem in color.

A "Welcome Aboard" sign will be located next to the front door -- the first message from the county district to passengers.

Starting with the New Year also was a maintenance efficiency program, a safety and retraining program and stepped-up public information services.

New, updated schedules and route maps are being prepared to inform riders of present service, while studies continue into transit improvements affecting neighborhoods and the county.

Schedules can be obtained from bus drivers and free route maps will be mailed to home addresses upon receipt of a call or letter to the County Transit District, 70 W. Hedding St., San Jose, CA 95110.

Two toll-free transit information numbers will be announced very soon.

A new fare structure will be in effect, with 25 cents as the basic adult fare and no zone charges. Commute books of 22 rides will be sold for $5. Youths five through 17 years and senior citizens 65 and over can ride anytime for 10 cents. Children under five are free with a fare-paying passenger.

Free transfers can be made to any other Santa Clara County Transit District line, including between San Jose and Palo Alto lines, with a maximum time limit of one and a half hours.

Sanitation District '4' serves 114,000 in West Valley area

Sanitation District No. 4 now provides a wastewater system for approximately 114,000 persons within the West Valley cities of Campbell, Los Gatos, Monte Sereno and Saratoga and the unincorporated areas between, according to the district's annual report, marking its 22nd year of operation.

Wastewater from the district is collected in 404 miles of lateral, main and trunk, sewers and conveyed through the interceptor sewers of the City of San Jose to the San Jose/Santa Clara Water Pollution Control Plant at Alviso, according to the report.

The wastewaters are given primary and secondary treatment to remove approximately 90 percent of pollutants and then discharged into South San Francisco Bay.

During year 1971-72 the District's maintenance crews removed 29 tons of sediment from its sewer system and prevented all but 18 sewer stoppages during the year. A total of 2.7 billion gallons of wastewater was collected by the district and treated at a cost of $150 per million gallons.

In 1965, Sanitation District No. 4 started an $8,800,000 program to supplement its overloaded sewer system and to purchase additional capacity in the San Jose/Santa Clara Water Pollution Control Plant. A $7,500,000 bond issue was approved for this purpose. The district now reports that the capital improvement program will cost an estimated $12,200,000 and is 60 percent completed.

The increased costs, due primarily to higher plant costs, the district anticipates, will be offset by Federal and State grants that will allow the district to complete its capital improvement plan without an additional bond issue.

The district started year 1971-72 with $3,790,000 reserves and obtained $1,860,000 in revenues from contributed facilities, investments, taxes, connection fees and sewer service charges.

At the end of the year the district had $4,140,000 in reserves and had expended $1,510,000 for bond service, sewage collection and disposal, capital facilities and administration.

The cash reserves being accumulated by the district will be used to complete the 1965 capital improvement program and partially pay for the district's share of tertiary wastewater treatment facilities and effluent conveyance facilities required to meet the water quality standards established for South San Francisco Bay.

BUSY ELVES --- Campbell High School students proudly examine over 1000 items of food and 400 toys which were collected by the spirit commission and girls sports teams to contribute to needy families. The foodstuffs were given to the First United Methodist Church collection and the toys to Toys for Tots. About 200 toys were given to the San Jose Indian Center. Left to right are Karen Lee, Denise Tripoli, Lisa Edwards, Liz Doss, Marsha Nishi and Kathy Morgan.

Eastfield's expansion announced

Eastfield Children's Center this month is expanding its day treatment service for emotionally disturbed children beyond its 251 Llewellyn Ave., (Campbell) location with establishment of a satellite program in the Alum Rock School District, East San Jose.

This move is being made possible by Federal funding (75 per cent) and through donations from the Eastfield Junior Auxiliary (25 per cent). The latter is made up of young women who, as volunteers, operate The Butter Paddle, a kitchen boutique at 14567 Big Basin Way, Saratoga.

A dozen children in the Alum Rock School District are participating in the Eastfield program, which is located in quarters provided by the school district. The district is also providing a teacher and a teacher's aide for special academic instruction.

In addition to day treatment for emotionally disturbed children, Eastfield provides residential, out-patient, foster home, and group home treatment. The agency was founded in the 1800's as the Home of Benevolence of San Jose, an orphanage; in the 1950's the purpose was changed and the move to Campbell was accomplished.

IT'S TIME---Registration made easier is one of the advantages of those enrolling in West Valley College's women's education program. Here Mary Fletcher (left, standing) helps one of the students complete the necessary paperwork for registering in the program. Applications are currently being accepted by Mrs. Mary Jean Van Peborgh, coordinator of the program, for the spring semester. Inquiries may be directed to her at the Saratoga campus, 867-2200.

"For women only" program offered at West Valley

A program "for women only" at West Valley College is now accepting applications for the spring semester, according to Mrs. Mary Jean Van Peborgh, coordinator of the program.

The program, which began this fall, enrolls some 25-30 women in classes designed to make returning to school easier, with the planned end result of educating the women to assume productive rolls in society.

Major goal of the program, according to Mrs. Van Peborgh, is to help the women realize their potential as individuals, as citizens, as homemakers and as wage earners by providing a supportive environment.

The program is designed for women who, because of low income levels, lack of formal education, limited communication skills and family responsibilities would not otherwise have a chance to return to school.

Mary Jean Van Peborgh
Program Coordinator

Women in West Valley's program range in age from an 18-year-old girl who has completed only one year of high school to a 48-year-old Hungarian immigrant who has completed one year of college in Europe but who cannot speak English.

Others enrolled include one woman with only a sixth grade education, a young married woman recently off a South Dakota Indian reservation, and widows and recently divorced mothers who must now face the financial responsibility of support for their families.

An advantage of the program for the women is keeping them together in a 9 a.m.-1 p.m. block of classes during this first semester of the two-year program. During this first semester women were enrolled in courses in sociology, self appraisal and vocational exploration, communication skills, consumer education and use of learning resources.

It is hoped that by the end of the first year most of the women will have chosen a vocational or educational goal. Individual counseling is used to help each woman define her goal. If a woman chooses a career program, she will enroll in courses for the program at West Valley during the second year.

It is expected that some of the women will complete career programs at West Valley and then seek a job, while others will choose to further their education at a four-year institution.

Under the program those women with pre-school children are assisted in enrolling their children in child care centers in the county while they attend classes at West Valley.

Applications for the spring semester and further information on the program can be obtained by calling Mrs. Van Peborgh at the Saratoga campus, 867-2200.

Speaking of taxes

by Pat Safford, vice-president of Northern California Assn. of Enrolled Agents

Readers comments and questions are welcomed. Those of general interest will be covered in "Speaking of Taxes." Address your letters to: Speaking of Taxes, P. O. Box 158, Campbell, CA 95008.

The local California Franchise Tax Board has a new telephone number for taxpayer assistance. It is, appropriately, 998-1540. The last three numbers match our state tax form, 540.

Q–I did not send in my return for last year because I didn't have the money due. I will have it in about two months. Should I file then or wait and send it in with my 1972 taxes?

A–File immediately, whether you have the necessary funds or not. Willful failure to file a tax return can bring you more grief, personal and financial, than having a tax bill on your hands. If immediate payment in full is impossible for you, the IRS collection department can work with you in making a reasonable payment schedule. You'll have penalty and interest charges in any event but will not be breaking the law.

Get your return in.

Q–I had trouble with the person who prepared my taxes last year. How can I be sure the person I select is competent?

A–First, discuss the "problems" you had with local IRS officials. They are very interested in cracking down on fraudulent or grossly incompetent tax preparers.

Second, there are only three general classifications of individuals who have passed examinations which include tax law and provisions. These are attorneys, certified public accountants and enrolled federal tax agents. This is no guarantee that they are experts but does demonstrate that they are conscientious enough to rise to professional standards.

The problem here is that there aren't enough of these professionals available to take care of the need.

Many tax practitioners who have not passed any examination are well qualified. Some are not. How do you tell the difference? Glowing reports from friends who claim to have gotten huge refunds are not of any real help either. A skillful practitioners can save you hundreds of dollars in some cases but many of the fraudulent practitioners obtained large refunds through use of misinformation. However, many of their clients are now paying back these refunds to the government.

A few guidelines may be helpful.

1. Does he or she promise to get you a big refund? Look out. No one can make such promises. The majority of taxpayers receive refunds but many do not...and should not.

2. Does the amount you pay to the practitioner depend upon the amount of refund you'll receive? Run, don't walk, to the door. Fees should depend upon the amount of work your practitioner has to do. One return may take two hours to prepare with a refund due of $35. Another take 10 minutes with a refund of $450. It would not make sense to charge the first $3.50 and the second, $45.

3. Does the practitioner advise you to take "what the IRS allows" for itemized deductions? This is wrong. While the IRS does use guidelines for what they expect the average family to spend on various items, in an audit you'll have to show you actually spent those amounts. More to the point, those averages shown for church contributions, for example, are made up of many individuals including those who tithe 10% of all earnings to their church on one hand and those who haven't seen the inside of a church for 20 years on the other.

Many forget to look when driver's license expires

Have you looked at your California driver's license lately? Look at it closely. In the upper left-hand corner it tells you when it expires. Unfortunately, says the California State Automobile Association, many drivers forget to do this and are driving with an expired license, which is unlawful.

If you renew your license before it expires, you may only have to take a written examination; however, a road test can be required as a part of any license examination given by the California Department of Motor Vehicles.

Two common errors made by those taking the driving test are: not coming to a complete stop at a stop sign, and changing lanes by using the mirror only instead of glancing back to be sure it's clear and safe. Failing to glance back is particularly dangerous when moving to the right because of the blind spot created by using the inside or left rear-view mirror only.

Here are some samples of the type questions that appear on the California driver's license examination that are often missed. See if you know the right answers.

1. You may make a left turn against a red signal on a one-way street after stopping, and if no sign prohibits such a turn, and it is safe

A. From any one-way street

B. From a one-way street into another one-way street if traffic moves to the left

C. From a one-way street into a two-way street if traffic conditions permit.

2. A highway lane marked on both sides by broken yellow lines is a

A. Passing land used only for passing slower traffic

B. Two-way left turn lane used only for making left turns from or onto a highway

C. Painted divider used to prohibit passing and left turns.

3. It is permissible to use the center lane of a 3-lane highway when you are

A. Going faster than normal speeds

B. Turning left or passing

C. Traveling at reduced speeds.

4. The "YIELD" road sign means you should

A. Stop at all times

B. Watch for pedestrians

C. Slow down and give right-of-way to cross traffic.

5. If you meet another car on a narrow and hilly road not wide enough to pass each other, which car should yield the right-of-way by backing up?

A. The car going uphill

B. The car going downhill

C. Neither one.

6. If you hit and damage an unattended car and can't find the owner, you must

A. Leave a note on the car and notify the police

B. Notify the owner by registered mail

C. Notify your insurance company only.

7. You may cross a solid double line

A. To enter or leave a private driveway

B. To overtake and pass another car

C. To make a U-turn at a blind curve.

Two boys celebrate New Year

Two Campbell boys, 11 and 12, have a special reason to celebrate New Year's Day. Russell and Jeffrey Casteel, 454 Queens Court, were both born on January 1 and were both contenders in the annual stork race in Klamath Falls, Oregon, a decade ago.

Russ, born at 3:44 a.m. January 1, 1961 came in a close second and just missed out being the first baby born in the northern community that year. First place went to a baby born by Caesarean section at 14 minutes past midnight.

Jeff, born at 7:33 a.m. January 1, 1962 was the first baby born in Klamath Falls that year.

The boys are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Casteel. Carol Casteel is circulation manager for the Campbell Press and her husband is director of occupational and career education for the Mountain View - Los Altos Union School District. They have four other children; Christy, 16; Cindy, 14; Cherie, 13, and Charla, 5.

Russ and Jeff are both students at Rosemary School. Russ is in the sixth grade and Jeff is in the fifth. They are both active in Campbell Little League. They also play flag football and are active in intramural sports at Rosemary.

SPECIAL CELEBRATION-- Jeff and Russ Casteel celebrate more than the New Year each year. Both have birthdays on January 1.

WVC trustees reject idea of negotiating sub-committees

West Valley College trustees will sit as a group in developing guidelines for negotiating procedures, but they will not sit individually on sub-committees for such purposes.

That was the consensus December 21 when the board voted on a proposal put forth by the college's faculty senate that three board members sit on a sub-committee to develop negotiating guidelines.

Supt. James P. Hardy said he agreed with the idea of establishing negotiating guidelines and time schedules but disagreed with the idea of having board members sit on sub-committees. "I do not believe an institution like this can function with the board serving in a committee function," he said.

Bob Ariza, president of the faculty senate, asked "is the board more concerned with fair negotiating procedures or the board's role in the procedure? These are two different things."

Board member Bob Brydon said "we shouldn't be part of a group saying yes you (employees) need raises or no you don't need a raise." Fellow trustee Donald Lindstrom said "you (the ad-hoc committee without trustees) will come up with guidelines and we will react to them."

Trustee Robert Sorensen proposed that a study session be held after a set of guidelines are drawn up. A further report on this matter will come before the board in the near future.

In other action December 21 the board:

ACCEPTED a federal grant of $114,048 for the "Implementation of an Inter-agency Training Program for Community Health Workers." Under the grant the college will idenify the role of the community health worker and assist two other community colleges in the establishment of community health worker training programs.

PUT OVER to unfinished business a policy on board action regarding legislative matters.

ACCEPTED the 1971-72 financial audit report prepared by Donald G. Brungardt.

APPOINTED division chairmen in four areas. They are Tyler Welburn, business; Ted Geredes, engineering-technology; Mac Martinez, language arts; and Wayne Clay, physical education. The terms of office begin Feb. 1, 1973 and end Jan. 31, 1975.

APPROVED non-graded, non-credit classes in folk guitar, cosmic evolution and an orientation workshop for new students at the college.

ADDED a number of new courses in the business, nursing, and recreational fields.

APPROVED final plans and specifications and authorized the call for bids for the law enforcement complex to be built on the Saratoga campus.

FILED a notice of completion for underground electrical services at the Saratoga campus.

APPROVED the following personnel items: appointed Glenn Woosley to the post of groundsman-gardener, and accepted, with regret, the resignation of James Stattion, custodian, effective Dec. 31.

After-school sports programs raise points of concern

Series delves into varied aspects of "organized vs. unorganized" games

by Pat Safford

Most parents of junior high and elementary students face a day when their child races into the house with the shouted announcement, "I made the team!" This may be a reference to school athletics or one of the many organized sports teams.

While you're no doubt proud of your child, there are also doubts; what about injuries?...aren't the games a little too rough?...or what if my child warms the bench all year?

Several aspects of after-school sports for the elementary and intermediate school student are discussed. The senior high programs will be covered in a later article.

--makes report

One concerned leader in the field of sports safety is Dr. Martin Trieb.

Dr. Trieb is chairman of the Medical Aspects of Sports Committee of the Santa Clara County American Medical Society. He also serves as team physician and orthopedic consultant for California State University at San Jose and is a member of the state medical association's Physical Fitness and Medical Aspects of Sports Committee.

SPORTS SAFETY

If a child is going to participate in any sports, Dr. Trieb feels they are probably safer in organized, rather than unorganized, athletics. There are four main reasons for this, he said.

They are provided with the proper protective equipment.

There is definite supervision.

They are in better physical shape due to regular exercising.

They are coached in proper techniques for their particular sport, which includes learning how to fall.

MOST IMPORTANT

In determining whether your child should participate in after-school sports or not, the local orthopedist feels the most important consideration should be, "whether the child WANTS to participate or not."

While children need encouragement to participate, he said, in some cases too much parental pressure is applied. "I sometimes feel that some parents are getting the benefits out of having their child compete in athletic events and I'm not sure whether or not the child is getting the same benefits." It is alright to encourage your child to be an achiever, Dr. Trieb continued, but it becomes detrimental when you push them or try to make them into something you never were.

TOO ORGANIZED

"Today so many of children's activities seem almost too organized," the doctor stated. "Children need to seek their own level of performance instead of being pushed into activities."

As far as injuries are concerned, Dr. Trieb feels that juveniles are not any more susceptible to injury than any other group. They may be more susceptible to some injuries, such as trauma to the growth centers, he said, but as a group they can tolerate some injuries better than older individuals. "They seem to bounce back faster," he said.

Next--Dr. Trieb has criticism for at least one organized sports group.

SET FOR A PASS--Jeff Jones gets ready for a forward pass.

KICK-OFF--Rich Wright kicks off with teammates close behind.

School district programs vary with age groups of youngsters involved

Many people make comparisons between the junior and senior high school programs, according to Joe Stein, physical education consultant for the Campbell Union (elementary) School District. There are many differences between them, he said.

For instance, between weight classification in the wrestling program there is a difference of five pounds, Stein said, instead of the 12 pound weight difference in the senior high program. Other differences include; one minute rounds, instead of two, the football fields are shorter (70 versus 100 feet) and there are nine players on a side in football rather than 11.

DISTRICT PHILOSOPHY

"We try to give boys and girls experience in as many areas of sports activity as we can," the PE consultant said. When they get to high school, he continued, they have to pick and choose but at the younger ages they need a variety of activities.

"Part of our philosophy," Stein continued, "is to keep the pressure off the kids. Of course they want to win," he said, "but we say...Let's have everyone play and still try to win."

An example of the de-emphasis on strong competitiveness is found in the fact that the district has no league play as such and no special awards are given for first place standings within the district. (However, it is also noted that the players themselves are keenly aware of their school's standings on any given day.)

PROUD OF OUR KIDS

Last year 592 boys and girls received the President's Physical Fitness Award, according to Stein. This compares with 332 who received the award in 1971. To earn the award a student must be in at least the upper 15% of each of six test areas. These areas include; standing long jump, jog walk and knee bent sit-ups. (An interesting note - local girls did much better on these tests, according to the established norms, than did the boys.)

Cubs special gift giving

Christmas was just a little brighter for one San Jose man because of Campbell Cub Scout Troop 331's efforts. The 24-year-old man, crippled since childhood as the result of an automobile accident, was presented with a new wheelchair.

According to Cub Master John Shea, 75 N. Second St., the group heard of the man's plight from his 12-year-old sister-in-law. The man was in need of a new wheelchair and could not afford to buy one.

The cub group first purchased a used wheelchair and, with the aid of a local fabric store, The Yardstick, obtained material to reupholster it. With much fixing, polishing and finishing the chair was ready by Christmas Eve...a day after the group had learned of the need.

On Christmas Eve Cubs Mark Clausen, Gordon Hodapp, Ronnie Shea and Bobby Shea delivered the chair with best wishes from the Campbell cub group. Accompanying them were Carol and John Shea and Ralph Hodapp, troop committee chairman.

Campbell youngster might become a lawyer someday

A Campbell mother and her boy who was born with a major birth defect, spina bifida, today assumed major volunteer jobs with the 1973 March of Dimes on birth defects.

Danny Fischer, 8, of 624 Ginden Drive, has been named one of six "goodwill ambassadors" for the Santa Clara County chapter, National Foundation-March of Dimes. Sharene (Mrs. Paul) Fischer is chairman of the Mothers' March, the residential campaign that on January 21 will find volunteers calling door-to-door both to distribute educational brochures and to ask for financial support of the National Foundation-March of Dimes.

Six spina bifida victims were named "goodwill ambassadors" in this county. Their birth defect is characterized by an "open spine"; the boney encasement of their cords did not close, allowing protrusion of cord or meninges (membranes that envelop the brain and spinal cord). Danny is unique in that he was a twin and the twin suffered another type of defect, a malformed heart, and did not survive despite surgery performed shortly after birth.

Danny, characteristic of victims of spina bifida, has been in and out of hospitals most of his life. Modern surgical techniques, combined with physical therapy and an assortment of braces and crutches, make it easier for this generation of spina bifida victims to get around than any previous generation. In addition, development of a shunt to drain cranial fluid into the body has kept them from developing the hydrocephalus and brain damage that formerly characterized many spina bifida victims.

Danny is picked up every weekday morning by a bus from Fremont Older School in Cupertino. He thinks he might like to be a lawyer, but his immediate interests are Cub Scouts and camping. He is an avid sports follower via television, and a great treat is to get to attend a professional football or baseball game.

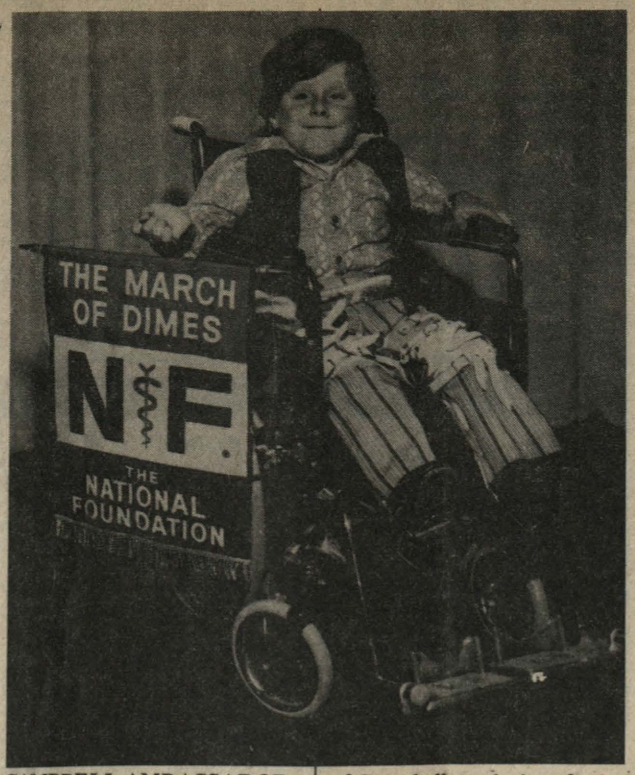
Like his fellow Santa Clara County ambassadors, he cannot stand without aid; he is just learning to walk with aid of braces and crutches. He crawls at home.

Each youngster affected with spina bifida has a different problem, both because of the location of the malformation and the amount of nerve damage it caused. Each has spent a good portion of his or her life in hospitals and must undergo continued physical therapy to keep mobile, even with braces and crutches.

Parents of the youngsters work to keep their lives as "normal" as possible; Mrs. Fischer knows it is a healthy sign when Dan picks a fight with his younger sister and she makes parental noises of disapproval, but she really rejoices because it indicates that Dan can be outgoing.

She serves as Den mother for a group of handicapped Cub Scouts and is president of the Chandler Tripp-Fremont Older parents group. She has also served as president of the Parents of Children with Neurological Defects. Even before Danny was born, Mrs. Fischer was active in the Mothers' March as a marcher. Since his birth, she has been active in organizing the campaign in her community, in a variety of ways, and she is now on the board of the Santa Clara County chapter, National Foundation-March of Dimes.

Working with her this year as divisional chairmen are Gail Elorreaga and Joann Hammill. Volunteers who would like to join their cause should call Marylynn Smith, co-ordinator, at 292-3122, and she will channel their calls to the correct location.



CAMPBELL AMBASSADOR--Happily posing for his official photograph as a 1973 goodwill ambassador for the Santa Clara County chapter, National Foundation-March of Dimes, is Danny Fischer, 8, of Campbell--a victim of spina bifida (open spine). His mother, Mrs. Paul Fischer, is a member of the chapter's board of directors and is chairman of the Mothers' March on birth defects in Campbell.
